Web Master / Librarian Report for 2010 – 2011

IARS web site

The IARS web site is hosted for free by Flexihostings. The web site is driven by Wordpress and SMF software, and has continued to operate smoothly for 2010-2011. This resource for members and other Internet visitors provides information about the IARS and amateur radio. The web site also provides a discussion forum for members, but this is not actively used.

Approximately 20 new postings have been made to the site for the year. We receive about 1500-2000 unique visitors per month, resulting in about 28,000 page views.

The URL for the IARS web site is <http://www.iars.org.au>

IARS library

The IARS library provides many books and magazines that are available to be borrowed by IARS members on a monthly basis. This year, a number of new books have been added, including: "Practical Antenna Handbook" by Joseph J Carr, "VHF-UHF Manual" by D S Evans G3RPE (RSGB), and "The ARRL Satellite Handbook" by Steve Ford WB8IMY.

The library continues to be popular with members, with 17 books borrowed during the year.
